OUR RURAL RESILIENCE

Resilient Rurals is a partnership between the towns of Lamont, Bruderheim and Gibbons for a regional climate change adaptation and resilience project within Alberta's Industrial Heartland.

It's a new approach - created by small towns, for small towns.

FOR THE GARDENERS AMONG US...

Plant for Tougher Growing Conditions

Are you sick of watching your plants die in the summer heat? Are you tired of watching and waiting for rain?

Native Roots plant lists can help you choose drought-tolerant and flood-resistant Alberta plant species that will ensure your garden grows healthy and beautiful all season long.

Discover Plant Species Native to Alberta

Weather patterns are changing, so it's important to support your local ecosystems. Native Roots outlines native species that are adaptable, pollinator-friendly, ecosystem-restoring and eye-catching.

Shop Local

More and more greenhouses and growers are supplying native Alberta plant species to garden and ecosystem restoration enthusiasts. Check out the supply at your favourite retailer or discover a new local go-to.

PREPARE YOUR GARDENS FOR FLOOD AND DROUGHT CONDITIONS

Native species plant lists are now available online to help you select plants that are well suited for wet and dry conditions. Check them out!
